KEYNOTE

UX IS ...
What it means to be an innovator and designer is transforming faster than before, from classic styling of the superficial to system design of everything, including social and political systems, deeply rooted in a space of challenges and promises between cutting edge tech and humanism. In an increasingly exponential and converging digital change, we design a relationship, a behavior, that the product will follow. In this keynote you will learn why this exponential change is our most important design brief and why it is just too important to be left only to designers, or for that matter to any single team.

FESTIVAL EVOLUTION – THE NEW FESTIVAL GENERATION

Panel

The festival market has undergone a drastic change in the past years. Next to the musical direction multiple other factors such as sustainability, atmosphere and the supporting program of festivals gain more and more meaning for the audience. This panel lays eyes on the development of the festival landscape in Germany and on an international level and argues why small boutique festivals have sometimes better chances in the market than bigger ones.

How the world’s biggest sport is making it in US

The US market is probably one of the most difficult sports markets to penetrate, in part because it’s such a crowded space with the NFL, NBA, MLB, NHL, MLS, NASL, NASCAR, PGA TOUR, and WTA, among others, all competing for the attention of sports fans.
